NOT CARNEGIE OR ROCKEFELLER

Each Institution Would Have Five Grammes of Mineral for Free Treatment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Announcement that an "aged millionaire" has a plan to erect twenty hospitals at a cost of $15,000,000 for free radium treatment of cancer, was made today by President J. Flannery of Standard Chemical company before the house miles committee. Each institution would have five grammes of radium. He indicated that neither Rockefeller nor Carnegie was the man involved.

Flannery's estimate was that there are now 200,000 cancer victims in the United States. He said this number could be treated in the twenty institutes, included in the philanthropist's offer. He placed the yearly cancer death toll at 75,000.

Will Boost Price

The cost of radium, the life saving element in the battle against the "red plague" will amount to a half million dollars a gram if the federal government withdraws radium ore lands from entry. Mine Commissioner Thomas E. Henahan of Colorado told the house miles committee today.

The witness declared that the nation can best answer the call of 75,000 cancer victims for "more radium" by giving prospectors a free reimbursement.

J. M. Flannery, president of the Standard Chemical company of Pittsburg, pioneer in America's radium business, told the committee the story of his struggle to uphold it, how he secured claims and the valuable secret extraction process as the result of a lifetime of earnest effort.

Tells of Hunt

Inspired by the death of a relative from cancer, Flannery said that he set about to find a red plague cure. Experts he sent to Europe returned with the report that radium was an effective remedy. Then, with a small plant, he started to manufacture the mineral salts. He found miners in Colorado, who were willing to sell for a song their carnotite ore filings. The witness said it took 350 or 400 tons of ore to produce a gram of radium.

Flannery declared that Colorado has enough radium to supply "the entire world's cancer victims five times over." Two hundred grams, he estimated, as the amount needed for sufferers in the United States.

"I'd be willing to contract to furnish this amount in five years to the government at a price lower than the government could manufacture it—at a maximum figure of $80,000 a gram," he asserted.

Radium, he declared, was twenty-five times more valuable in other diseases than cancer. It is a positive cure for rheumatism and other painful diseases.

capacity, whose appeals recently were granted by Federal Judges court of appeals today.

FORD MEN RUSH FOR THE ALTAR

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 21.—
"It was a great little boost for the marriage business in Detroit
—that profit sharing scheme of Henry Ford's," declared Marriage License Clerk Stewart today, when he tallied up his records for the past two weeks and found that more than seventy-five Ford employees had applied for licenses in that period.
"Twenty Ford workers came in here for permits in a single day," Stewart said.

In several instances, the license clerk reported, the girl made the application for the license because the prospective groom did not want to lose any time under the $5 minimum wage scale now in effect at the Ford plant.

"Yes, we rather figured things would break that way," said Henry Ford today when told of Cupid's unusual activity that has followed his philanthropy.

LOST A-7 FOUND ON BAY'S BOTTOM

Sunken Submarine, Grave of Eleven, Is Located by British Destroyer
at Whitsand

ADMIRALTY SECRET ABOUT CASE

No Vessels Allowed to Come Near and No Word Is Given Out by the Naval Department

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 21.—The lost submarine A-7, was found in Whitsand bay late this afternoon in 33 fathoms of water.

The A-7 failed to come to the surface on signal last Friday afternoon after a series of maneuvers. Two officers and nine men perished within her for lack of air.

Admiralty Silent

The admiralty officials declined to make any statement concerning the discovery of the A-7 and as far as possible stopped all leaks whereby details might be leaked.

Though no official word was forthcoming, it was reasonable to suppose that all the officers and men on the submarine were long since dead.

The destroyer Earnest found the
A-7, through the efforts of a diver.
The Earnest and the destroyer Zeal immediately were ordered to stand by the place over night and allow no craft to approach.

The work of raising the A-7, it was announced, will begin at dawn tomorrow.

Found at 6

It was near 6 o'clock when the Earnest, which had been assisting in the search for the A-7 since last Saturday, the day after the disappearance, signaled she had found something. The Zeal, also engaged in dragging Whitsand bay, at once hurried over to the Earnest's aid.

The word went around that the missing submarine, the supposed tomb of eleven British sailors, had been found. At once the docks and water front buildings were crowded with people and craft of all kinds, some of them bearing relatives and friends of the lost men, hurried in the direction of the Earnest.

Naval officials, however, signalled them back and announced that under no circumstances would any vessel, except the Earnest and the Zeal be allowed to approach the spot beneath which the A-7 was supposed to lie.

FIVE ARE KILLED WHEN HOME BURNS

Lamp Explodes in Home of Italian Laborer and Fires the Dwelling

ALPENA, Mich., Jan. 21.—Five persons were burned to death today when the explosion of a lamp in the home of Sam Bloise, a laborer here, set fire to the house. The dead are:
Mrs. Bloise, three of her five children, Frank, 6, Sindell, 5, and a ten months old baby and Danato Dal-samo, 30, a boarder.

When the fire started the father rushed to the room where two of his children were sleeping, seized them in his arms and jumped through a window. He was badly injured by the fall, but the children were un-harmcd.

Firemen were serious handicapped in fighting the fire by a fierce blizzard. The street leading to the little Italian home was buried under drifts of snow three or four feet deep. When they were able to explore the ruins, the firemen found the charred body of Mrs. Bloise near the door, clutching in her arms the body of her daughter Sinda. The woman evidently had died while trying to save her child. Nearby was the body of Dalsamo.

PITZ NOT UNDER COMPENSATION ACT

Assistant Court House Janitor Cannot Claim Damages for Injuries Under State Law

WILL BE REIMBURSED BY BOARD

Movement Is Started to Pay His Doctor's Bills and His Salary While
Incapacitated

John Pitz, assistant janitor at the county court house, who sustained serious injuries as the result of a fall from a ladder while discharging his duties, is not entitled to compensation from the county under the workmen's compensation act.

This opinion, which was rendered by District Attorney D. S. Law, is upheld by the state industrial commission replying to a query from The Tribune.

Pitz, whom everybody understood to be in the employ of the county, was in reality hired by Janitor Wei-mer and was paid by Mr. Weimer.
That the county board took cognizance of his work, however, was indicated when it allowed the janitor a sum sufficient to pay an assistant.

Technically, however, Pitz, being employed by Weimer, does not come under the act.

The Opinion

An excerpt from the unofficial opinion from L. A. Tarrell, chief examiner for the commission, follows:

"If the injured person was at the time of the accident an employee in the service of La Crosse county then he is an employee under the compensation act and entitled to its benefits. The law defines an employe as any person in the service of the state, or county, etc., under any appointment or contract of hire, express or implied. If the injured person can be classified as an employe under this provision of the law, he should make his claim against the county. If he was employed by the janitor and not by the county, unless the janitor is an employer of four or more he does not come under the compensation act. We do not care to give a final opinion, in fact,
have no authority to give an opinion which will have any effect, until an application has been made for an adjustment of the claim."

Will Get Aid

La Crosse county, however, will probably take care of Pitz and he will receive all—if not more—the benefits he would were he under the act.

"I don't think that Pitz should be deprived of compensation by a legal technicality," said Supervisor W. E.
Barber this morning. "The county board is not composed of a heartless crowd and the unfortunate janitor will probably receive his physician's fees and salary during the time he is incapacitated."

BENEZET DEFEATED BY CLOSE MARGIN

M. C. Potter of St. Paul Beats Local School Superintendent for Milwaukee Post by Two Votes

Last night, in secret session, the Milwaukee school board elected M.
C. Potter, superintendent of schools at St. Paul, to the Milwaukee superintendency, defeating Superintendent L. P. Benezet, of this city, by two votes. The final vote was Potter, 8; Benezet, 6. One of the fifteen members of the board was absent.

In view of the fact that Mr. Benezet became a candidate upon request and did not assume an aggressive attitude, and that he was without organized support, the vote constitutes recognition highly gratifying to his friends, for to be second out of sixty applicants whose qualifications were investigated is indeed an honor.

Prior to the election a special committee of investigation, after exhaustive study of the men, reported to the board recommending four candidates, as follows: Superintendent Braubacher of Schenectady, N.
Y.; President Eller, Puget Sound
University, Tacoma; J. Stanley
Brown, Joliet, Ill., and Superintendent Benezet. Mr. Potter was not included in the recommendation, because he had insisted that his candidacy remain secret, but he figured in the voting from the start.

Several ballots were taken, at first showing a scattering vote, but eventually the contest narrowed down to Potter and Benezet, with the result that the former won 8 to 6 on the final ballot.

FOR 2½ CENT RATE

SIoux FALLS FALLS, S. D., Jan.

half cent passenger rate was upheld by Federal Judge Willard in a decision filed here today. He dismissed the state's action in ordering a two cent rate as confiscatory.

BEARDSLEY GIVES UP AND IS JAILED

"Chautauqua Terror" Who Stood Off Fifty More Than a Week Surrenders

LEFT POSSE WATCHING HOUSE

Gave Self Up to Attorney and Went to Jail While Sheriff Guarded the Empty Home

MAYVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Edward Beardsley, the "Chautauqua terror," was locked in a cell in the county jail here today after having stood off fifty deputy sheriffs besieging his home, near Sumnerdale, for more than a week. Beardsley laid aside his rifle, unstrapped his cartridge belt and surrendered peaceably to Charles Backus, an attorney, early today, but after being housed in a hotel here displayed another outbreak of warlike spirit when a deputy came to take him to jail. After a scuffle, during which Beardsley was roughly handled, he was overpowered.

Apparently Has Brains

Beardsley is an undersized man, rather slim, but apparently muscular. He wore a rough workman's shirt, rough trousers and high boots.
The man is not an ignorant, uneducated farmer, as might be imagined.
He talks with ease and fluency of his troubles. He was at one time a teacher and a preacher of a humble sort, and his conversation is that of a man who is not without recognition of the fact that he knows exactly what he is talking about.

He said he did not intend to shoot Putnam and is sorry he did, but he acted in defense of his home.

The Beardsley children are still in the cabin on the hill in charge of their grandmother, Mrs. Edith Austin of Youngville, Pa. It has not been arranged when they will be removed to Mrs. Austin's home.

Watched Empty Nest

To add to the comedy of the whole affair, just before Beardsley left his "fort" he fired a shot, to intimate to the sheriff's posse that he was on duty and watchful.

After Beardsley was spirited away,
the sheriff's posse continued their watchful duty, not knowing that their prisoner had flown to Mayville jail.

EXPLOSION WRECKS FAIR

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—Four men are dead and scores of prizes horses, cattle and smaller livestock were killed as a result of a boiler explosion which wrecked a Howick hall, where the winter fair is being held here today. Part of the boiler was hurled through the steel roof of the building. The men's bodies were so mangled that identification was impossible. Scores of others were hurt.

DESERTED AT ALTAR

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 21.— After being deserted by his bride-to-be on the eve of their wedding, Michael Laskwick returned to his farm near Mason City, Ia., today a heartbroken man. Tonight he was to have married Stefanina Ratman, 20, but Stefanina announced that she had fallen in love with Stefan Rimaskewski, whom she met here on Sunday. She offered $65 here balm to the deserted bridegroom.

LANKFORD DEATH ACCIDENT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Unavoidthe coroner's jury in the death of Richard Dixie Lankford, vice president and secretary of the Southern railway, whose nude body was found in the bathroom of his apartment in Brooklyn last Thursday with the gas turned on full force.

FLIES 260 MILES.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 21.—
Lieut. Talliaferro, of the first aero those whose efforts brought forth the new currency law.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 21.—
Fern Ottman, 14, son of a Hopkins business man, was in Etel hospital today in a serious condition as a result of shooting himself when he failed to pass at school.

INJURED MEN ALL IN SERIOUS SHAPE

Three Burned by Electricity at Onalaska Yesterday Morning Are Low at Hospital

4500 VOLTS WENT THRU BODIES

This Is Claim of Electrician Who Viewed Scene of Accident After Awful Affair

All three of the men near electrocution at Onalaska yesterday morning are in serious condition at the St. Francis hospital.

Henry Paetzl, Winona, Minn., who was most severely burned, is in critical shape, his horribly mutilated leg and left arm being exceedingly painful. Whether or not amputation of the members will be necessary has not been decided.

Jack Heaselgrave, also of Winona, whose right leg and hands were severely burned, is suffering intensely and serious results may follow the injury to the leg.

Jack Snyder, the Plainview, Minn., man who was standing on the ground
when the electricity hit the three,
is in serious condition and the burn on his head may result more seriously than was anticipated.

Claim 4,500 Volts

That 4,500 volts passed through the men, instead of 2,300 as believed yesterday, is the assertion today of a well known electrician, who viewed the scene of the accident.

He maintains that the men were putting in a new wire and that it was being strung near a 4,500 carrier. Heaselgrave, he says, was "dead ending" a wire on one pole, Paetzl was working on the next and Snyder, operating a tackle, used in drawing the wire taut, was on the ground.

"Heaselgrave had undoubtedly fastened the wire at his end," says the electrician, "and, with his ply-ers still on it, gave the signal for Snyder to haul in the slack. Paetzl probably had his arm across a wire and when Snyder pulled the new wire touched the one carrying the 4,500 volts. The 4,500 volt carrier was bare, the new wire being insulated. The insulation was insufficient to stand the high voltage, however, and all three men got the shock."

Rosholt at Scene

The fact that two physicians were on the scene in but a few minutes after the accident, probably did much to help save the lives of the injured men.

Dr. J. Rosholt, La Crosse, who had been in the country, was coming through Onalaska immediately after the accident. He was told of the affair and stopping his machine immediately administered first aid to the injured.

FORD DOUBLES PAY OF GIRL WORKERS

Women Employes Discover that They Have Shared in Big Melon Cutting

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 21.—Henry Ford did not forget the 650 women workers in his plant when he announced his $10,000,000 profit-sharing plan as at first reported. The women and girls employed at the big automobile plant when they drew their pay today found that they, too, had shared in the biggest melon ever cut for labor's benefit. Their wages in every case had been practically doubled.

"I'm too surprised and delighted to say much except to add my praise for Mr. Ford and his plan," said Miss Alice Hockmuth, telephone operator at the Ford plant.

When Miss Hockmuth drew her pay she found her salary had been doubled. She now receives $3 a day, works eight hours, has an hour for lunch and two ten minute rest periods.

TO PUT LID ON CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 21.— What reformers predict is a step toward the total elimination of Cleveland's segregated vice district came today when Chief of Police Rowe announced that two-thirds of the district will be wiped out immediately.
His first orders to vacate affect a large apartment building which investigation has shown to belong to one of the most prominent church workers in the city.

PROBE ICE CAR MONOPOLY.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—An investigation into the alleged ice car monopoly was started here today by Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord. Representatives of a score of railroads and a dozen private car companies were called to give testimony as to alleged discrimination between shippers and extortionate charges for icing refrigerator cars, and to tell how the refrigerator car business was conducted.

WON'T BELIEVE SON IS MURDERER

GALESBURG, Ill., Jan. 21.— Albert Higgins, the venerable father of Robert Higgins, now in jail at Alledo, it was learned late yesterday, proposes to make a fight against the charge that holds his son responsible for murdering his wife on January 5 in order to cover up his illicit relations with his stepdaughter, Julia Flake. The aged man is almost overcome with the horror of the situation, but is still firm in his belief that his son is innocent. He has heard from his son's own lips his confession that he killed his wife and yet he says: "There is some terrible mistake. I do not believe that my boy could commit such a deed."

Mr. Higgins is one of the old settlers of that section and is a man of means and of standing.
He has employed Attorneys Graham and Carlstrom to see that his son has fair play.

NEW YORK GUNMEN KILL "SQUEALER"

New "Gyp the Blood" Shoots Man Who Is Said to Have Sent Gangster Up River

CONVICTING JURY IS TERRORIZED

Go Home Under Police Guard at Hint of the Judge in the Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Murder was the answer of New York gunmen here today to the announced police war of extermination against them. Almost simultaneously with the conviction of "Dopey Benny" Fein, a notorious gang leader, for an attack on Police Sergeant Patrick Sheridan, which came early this morning, five other gunmen in a Bowery saloon—known as the "Tub of Blood," shot and killed Thomas Murphy, after denouncing him as a "squealer."

A man known as "Gyp the Blood," since the original gangster of that name was sent to Sing Sing following the notorious Rosenthal murder, is said by the police to have been the slayer of Murphy.

"You squealed and sent him up the river," it is said the gangster snapped as he leaned across a saloon table and pumped three bullets into Murphy's heart. As his victim fell, Gyp and four other men vanished
from the place, and the police found only two men and two women in the grocery when they burst through the door. All declared they had no part in the killing but all were charged with homicide.

The assassination of Murphy was hardly more sensational than the conviction of "Dopey" Benny, the gangster. It took a jury in Judge Malone's general sessions court forty-five minutes to convict the gunmen, and terrorized by the consequences of their acts, most of them accepted a hint from Judge Malone by police through a crowd of gunmen who stood sullen at the court's door.
The maximum sentence for "Dopey Benny's" offense is five years in the penitentiary. He will learn his fate on Friday.

Fein's spirit was not broken by his conviction. As he was being led from the courtroom he leaned over toward Sergeant Sheridan and whispered sharply: "I'll get you yet."

EMPLOYEES TO BE CITY INSPECTORS

Committee to Recommend Measure for Additional Work to Bradish and Forrer

When the Council Meets Tomorrow night there will be recommended for adoption a resolution providing that Park Commissioner John Forrer and City Engineer George

P. Bradish act as inspectors on all city jobs. This will eliminate the necessities of hiring inspectors.

The resolution providing for the creation of a city purchasing committee will also be favorably reported by committees. The resolution provides that the mayor, city comptroller and city clerk compose the commission.

Hereafter, if the council adopts the resolution as recommended, the superintendent of schools will have to render a monthly financial report.

MOTHER LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleanser" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

WEST SALEM, WIS.

The Mesdames James and Van Ness of Bangor, Wis., spent Thursday here with friends and relatives. Mrs. Ida Tison entertained at a five o'clock luncheon on Saturday. Covers were laid for six. This was the thirteenth party in the series.

Mrs. Fayette Sparling of Millston, Wis., is spending a few days here with relatives and friends.

Wendell McElowney left for Chicago the last of the week to attend the automobile show that is being held there.

Mr. Saxton, who is canvassing the village and vicinity in the interest of the proposed mausoleum to be erected in one of our local cemeteries, is quite cheerful over the prospect as he is meeting with good success.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendrick spent the week's end with relatives at La Crosse, returning home Sunday noon.

A large attendance and a fine supper and a very enjoyable time were the features of the evening last Wednesday at the Ladies' Aid society of the Norwegian Lutheran church, which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hussa and family of Bangor, Wis., spent Sunday here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavenie of Hastings, Minn., have been spending a few days here with friends and relatives. Mrs. Lavenie is a daughter of Mrs. Roby.

The funeral of Mr. Peter Moe, who died on Friday, was held on Monday, interment in the Jesuit cemetery. The many friends of Miss Maude Hodge regret to learn of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. James Hodge of Onalaska, Wis., who is at Rochester, Minn. Miss Maude accompanied her.

Mrs. Richmond of La Crosse, Wis., was a West Salem caller on Monday.

You've Met Him.

"Oh, he's the kind of man that saves his longest story to tell while we are holding the front door open for him to go."

Make Your Meals Afraid of You

Don't Be Afraid of Food. Just Take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and You'll Digest It All O. K.

All you men and women who want to eat and are filled with fear, stay this kind of folly. Just carry a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your purse or pocket and after your meal eat it like you do candy.

The meal will be digested; the weakened digestive juices will be enriched and you will lose your fear of food.

"What I Can Do to a Meal Now Is Simply a Shame."

Don't you know that these tablets are carried by thousands all over the land? In their bags as they travel, in purses or pockets when they attend banquets or after theater parties and meals early or late, large or small are easily digested without harmful effects.

One element of these tablets is so efficient that one grain of it will digest 3,000 grains of food. This is science brought down for your use and it is nature's own science, too.

No matter where you live, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will be found even in the smallest drug store, although it is only a cross roads drug-gist.

This popularity is based solely upon the reputation, proof and testimonial excellence of these tablets in every part of our land.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Satisfactory Evidence
BY CASPAR JOHNSON

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Talbot Dean put the papers in a pigeon hole, cleared the litter from his blotter and closed the desk.

This was the last of the office for three months. Tomorrow he was to marry the nicest girl in all the world and they would go abroad for their honeymoon.

Everything was fixed at last. Business matters were all settled. Now for three months abroad with Frances—the cathedrals of England, the gay life of Toulon and Dieppe, the soft blue-gray cliffs of Sorrento.

Dean began to whistle more blithely, and then, without any preliminary tapping the office door opened very softly, some one slid in. Frances Vail was sitting in the big chair by the window, the traces of recent tears in her eyes and a pathetic droop to her shoulders.

Dean sprang forward. "Good Heavens!" he cried. "Frances, what is it? What's happened? You've been crying, dearie—you've been crying."

She held out a hand as if to ward him off. The look on her face frightened him.

"Please sit down—over there—at your desk," she said.

Dazed, bewildered, Dean did as she bade him.

"It's all a mistake," she said. "This marriage of ours, I've just found out in time it would be an awful—a frightful mistake!"

He stared at her as if he could not believe his senses.

"I reasoned it all out this afternoon, I had to tell you at once."

Dimly he stared at her for a good half minute. Then he spoke, quietly, reservedly, as was always his wont, no matter what the stress. His voice showed neither surprise nor excitement.

"May I be permitted to ask," he inquired, "why? This is not like you, Frances. You are not impulsive. You weight things before you act. I confess I'm surprised. Therefore, why?"

"It's a mistake," she repeated, pressing her gloved hands together.

"We should never be happy; we couldn't be. I feel it."

"A woman's reason," he said.

"I am a woman," she flashed.

"There must be a better one," he urged.

"Please, please don't let's discuss it," she said. "Please let it go as it is. I counted on you to let me have my way."

"If you are sure you wish it," said Dean.

"I do," said she. "I do, I do."

"Very well, then," said he. "It shall be as you wish. I trust you implicitly, Frances—your judgment, your lack of disturbing or inane impulsiveness. Your reason, too, or lack of it, will be quite sufficient, if you wish it that way. We'll simply call this the end of it."

"I knew you'd be like this," she cried, and he couldn't tell whether it was gratitude or disappointment in her voice.

She stripped off her left glove and from her third finger removed the single diamond.

"Here is the ring," she said, passing it to him.

He took it and put it in his vest pocket.

"As always, as you wish," was his only comment.

But she noticed hard lines appearing at the corners of his mouth. Still, he was smiling, albeit a forced smile.

She replaced the glove.

"There seems to be nothing more," she said.

"Nothing, evidently," he returned, and stepped to the door to open it for her.

A minute he stood there fumbling the knob. Then all at once he wheeled about, his face contorted.

"No!" he cried hoarsely. "By heavens, no! This is one too many! You've driven me too far for once. Sit down!"

She stared at him in disbelief.

"I say sit down!" he thundered, and, catching her by the arm he forced her back almost roughly to the chair by the window. Then he locked the office door and put the key in his pocket.

"What are you doing?" she cried.

He did not answer her. Instead he picked up the telephone on his desk. Savagely he manipulated the receiver hook until he was answered.

"Give me 4846 South," he called; and a moment later: "This Billy Jordan? Say, Billy, you're a justice of the peace, aren't you? You can perform marriages?"

The girl in the chair by the window stiffened.

"Well, hike right over here as fast as you can."

Frances Vail gasped.

"You wouldn't?" she gasped.

"Wouldn't I?" he cried. "Watch. This is just a little too much—to come in here the evening before the wedding, when everything is all arranged, when the tickets for the trip are bought and the bookings at the hotels made, and tell me it's all off—all because you feel we won't be happy. Well, happy or no, you'll marry me just the same, and you'll go abroad with me if I have to drag you there in chains. I am human. Have you ever thought of that?"

Her hands pressed tight together. Her little teeth were set. Out of her gray eyes flashed fire.

"You brute!" she said.

"Quite so," he returned, placidly again.

At that juncture there came a tapping at the door. Dean leaped up, unlocked it, and grinned. Billy Jordan entered, looking rather mystified and decidedly ill at ease.

"Here," said Dean, drawing some papers from his pocket, "are some licenses for a wedding tomorrow. See if they are all right."

"They are quite right," said Billy Jordan.

"Now, then, this is the day. We've decided to be married here."

Billy Jordan looked uneasy at the girl.

"May I ask the lady one or two questions?" said he.

"No!" thundered Dean.

He stepped to the window and fairly snatched Frances out of the chair.

"Proceed," he commanded Billy Jordan again.

Billy Jordan hesitated.

"The door is locked, I believe I'll murder you if you don't," said Dean.

Out came a small, black book. Billy Jordan began to read. When it came to the point where he asked Frances if she would take this man to be her wedded husband, the girl hesitated.

"Say that you do," hissed Dean, glaring down at her.

"I do," said Frances in a weak little voice.

Somehow it was over. Billy Jordan, richer by a $20 bill, was hustled unceremoniously out. Dean stood staring at the girl for a moment, then collapsed weakly into the chair at his desk. All at once his anger seemed to fall from him. He looked like a frightened little boy.

"What have I done?" he choked.

"Dear Heavens, what have I done?" For answer came a swish of skirts. Two arms went around his neck. The girl's cheek was against his. Her hair was in his eyes.

"What have you done?" she cried. "You've made me sure at last. I was afraid we'd never be happy; you were so contained, so cool, so absolutely the master of yourself. You didn't seem human at times. I wanted you to be angry and rage and roar and—"

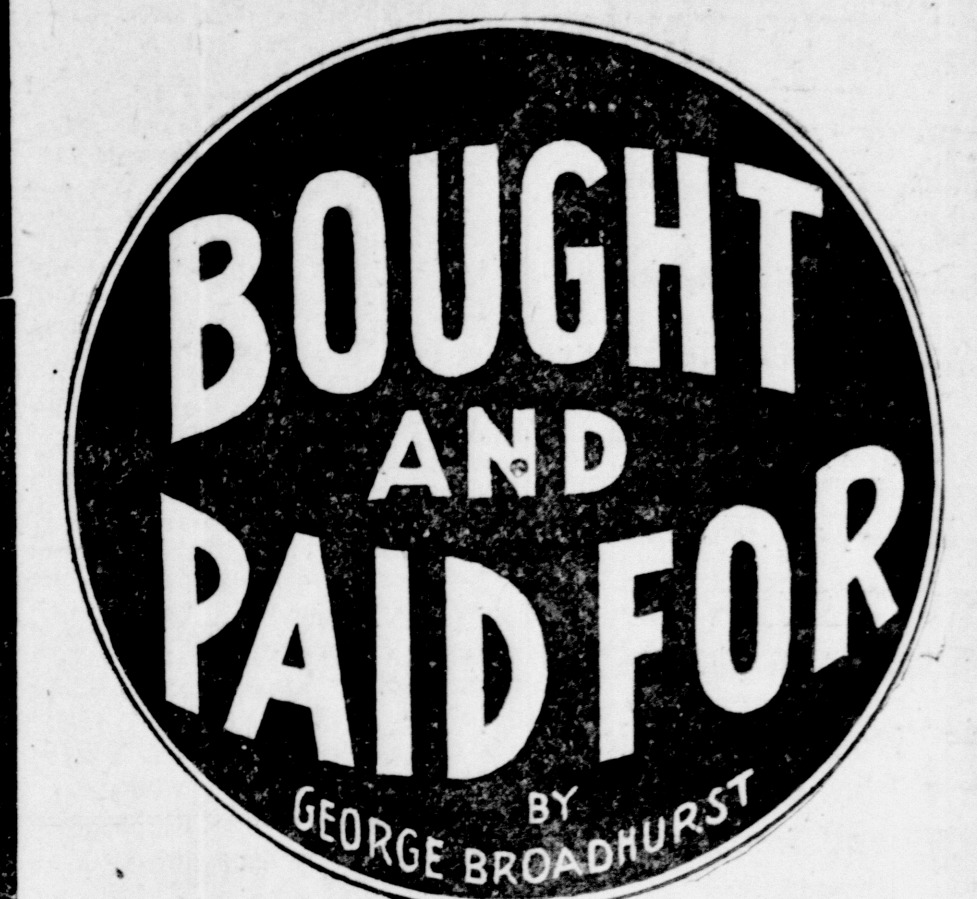

"Human; just as I want you to be," she cried triumphantly.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Witch And the Cedar Chest.

Out Stepped a Funny Old Woman.

"I AM going to tell you tonight," said daddy, "a story about a little girl named Gretchen. She lived way off in Germany. She was very pretty, with yellow hair and big blue eyes. She was quite fat, too, and had a very jolly nature and laughed a great deal.

"Gretchen's mother and daddy had both died when she was very young, so Gretchen lived with her grandmother and granddaddy. She was very happy and had lots of little friends to play with all the time. In the evenings before she went to bed her granddaddy always told her lovely fairy stories, and when she went to bed she'd dream she was with the fairies, playing games with them and dancing about as fairies do.

"In the attic of her home were a great many strange and quaint old things, but the thing which seemed to hold more mystery than anything else was an old cedar chest covered with horsehair. Gretchen never dared look in the chest for some reason she couldn't understand herself, though she often wondered what really was inside.

"One night after her granddaddy had been telling her one of his wonderful stories and her grandmother had tucked her in her soft white bed Gretchen still felt very wide awake. But before long she fell asleep, and a strange dream came to her.

"She dreamed she was up in the attic looking at everything in turn, but more than anything else she was gazing at the old cedar chest and wondering what could be within it. And as she was looking the lid opened, and out stepped a funny old woman with a wrinkled face. She wore a black shawl over her shoulders and a great big pointed black hat on her head.

"Gretchen was sure she was a witch. Soon she spoke in a very soft, clear voice, not at all gruffly, as Gretchen imagined she would speak.

"Little Gretchen, I have known you were always very curious to learn what was in the cedar chest. I live in it and have for years and years, for I am very, very old, as you can see. But my voice does not sound old because I am very happy, and so it does not get the chance to grow old. When you're asleep I come out of my chest and go to the parties the fairies give. Tonight I've come to tell you you must never be afraid of the old cedar chest, but you must never look inside it. If you did my voice would change into the voice of an old woman, too, and that would make me very sad."

"So Gretchen promised, and the next day when she looked at the chest it did not frighten her, but she kept her promise and did not try to open the top, for she knew that would spoil the witch's greatest happiness—her voice, which was not old like her wrinkled face."

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU'RE BACKACHY AND RHEUMATIC

Meat forms uric acid which clogs Kidneys; causes Rheumatism and irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Chas. A. Beyschlag, Druggist, 509 Main Street.

SPOTLIGHTS

"LION AND THE MOUSE"

The Van Dyke and Eaton company has certainly eclipsed any popular priced company that has ever played the La Crosse theater with their production of "The Lion and the Mouse," which they have played to capacity business since last Sunday matinee, when they turned hundreds of people away.

Special mention is due the splendid work of Miss Tolson, Mr. Vickery and Mr. Hastings. Miss Tolson in the role of Shirley Rossmore proved to her many admirers that she was capable of extracting every point out of this difficult part and pleased them more than ever, which was evident from the applause which greeted her every time she set foot on the stage.

Mr. Vickery, as the money king, John Burkett Ryder, was splendid, and carried the part with a finish seldom seen anywhere in a stock production. As Jefferson Ryder, his son, Mr. Hastings showed his many admirers a character clean cut and manly, and carried off equal honors with the others. The rest of the cast played their parts well and deserve much credit.

Owing to the phenomenal business the management of the company has decided to hold the play over for the rest of the week, which will be Thursday matinee and night and Friday, as they go out of town Saturday, leaving the theater open for the road show of "Bought and Paid For."

The Van Dyke and Eaton company will Friday play here their two hundredth performance.

WANTS TO RETURN TO HUSBAND NO. 1

Mrs. Florence Wooley Bentley.

Mrs. Florence Wooley Bentley is the woman who over a year ago was divorced from Ellsworth B. Overshiner, a wealthy Chicago telephone magnate, and who now seeks a divorce from her second husband, whom she married a short time ago in California. It is reported she intends to marry Overshiner, her first husband. Overshiner was formerly president of the Swedish American Telephone Company.

WHERE NOW IS THEIR
"ODIOUS COMPARISON?"

The fight in Illinois between Governor Deneen and former Governor Deneen as to who is responsible for the $5,000,000 indebtedness of the state above its taxation assets is interesting in Wisconsin in view of the fact that when the reactionaries of Wisconsin made their "retrenchment" fight in the election
two years ago, they pointed to Illinois as a state presenting a system of sound finances. Also, they pointed to Minnesota, which this year confesses a debt of a million and a half. One wonder which way they will turn this year for states by comparison with which their own can be made a "horrible example?"

SEGREGATION IN EUROPE A FRAUD

Advocates of "segregation" in this country have long answered the critics of that system by pointing to Europe with the declaration that there it has proven workable and practically solved the problem of commercial vice, and standing without specific refutation the statement has carried conviction to many of the open minded.

Now that answer is exposed as a fraud, for after more than a year spent in personal investigation of European cities, Mr. Abraham Flexner, commissioned for the work by the bureau of social hygiene of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman, stamps the whole story as a fabrication. We quote from his report:

"Segregation is not undertaken in any European city from Budapest to Glasgow. Segregation is, therefore, impracticable; more than this, any attempt to bring it about is also recognized to be inadvisable. In the first place, the impossibility of thoroughness creates an obvious opportunity for police corruption; a woman who objects to being segregated may for an adequate consideration induce the police to overlook her; and as hundreds are bound to be overlooked anyway, the chances of detecting fraud are slender.

"Again, a segregated quarter would give to vice the greatest possible prominence. Finally, it would expose to moral contagion those who are already most imperiled and whom every consideration of interest and decency should impel society to protect—the children of the poor, for the segregated quarter will inevitably be located where rents are low and where the neighbors have least influence.

"This, then, is the final and weightiest objection to regulation:
not that it fails as hygiene, not that it is contemptible as espionage, not that it is unnecessary as a police measure, but that it obstructs and confounds the proper attitude of society towards all social evils."

An utter failure in Europe, hostile to the trend of thought of the times,
and vulnerable in the light of experience in this country, segregation must go into the discard with slavery and polygamy.

JUST THE TRUTH
THAT'S ALL WE WANT

"Billy" Fries is probably as efficient an official as La Crosse has ever had the good fortune to elect, a pleasant fact in addition to which we do not hesitate to add that his integrity equals his capability.

It may seem queer—this endorsement of a public official when no campaign is being waged. What's the answer?

Just this: we are insisting upon an official correction of a misleading financial statement sent to taxpayers by the city, and want it distinctly understood that we mean no reflection upon the city comptroller.

The fact is that the faulty form of financial statement has been in use for many years, and Mr. Fries simply took it as he found it. It is in use in other cities.

The incorrect and misleading form has been seized upon by reactionary politicians, interested in discrediting the state administration, to back by official documents their misrepresentations conveying the fraudulent impression that money raised by taxation for the support of city and county schools is raised for the support of the state government.

To particularize:
An official statement of La Crosse city finances includes in the item of "state and county taxes" the sum of $53,000 which is not "county and state taxes" at all, but CITY taxes.

Reactionaries are using this misstatement to lead voters to believe that the state taxes in this place are $53,000 more than they actually are.
As a matter of fact, this sum is far in excess of the total of all state taxes, even on this exceptional year, and is more than two and a half times the normal state taxes.

The city made the misleading statement which makes this misrepresentation possible, and we demand that the city correct the error. We shall continue to demand an official statement of the truth
until it is forthcoming, and we offer no apology for so doing.

But the circumstances make not the slightest difference with our attitude toward Comptroller Fries.
We have supported him upon every occasion upon which he has appeared as a candidate, and each time our confidence in his ability and honesty has been justified by his administration of his important office. We expect to support him again, for we believe it is a proper function of a newspaper to point out the merits of officials who have been good and faithful servants of the public.

WAS MISUNDERSTOOD

We hope we are not lacking in fraternal courtesy in confessing skepticism as to the accuracy with which The Chronicle quoted County Treasurer Garbers when it credited him with denying the existence here of a delinquency of $1,004.40 of income tax, for the shortage actually exists. However, if Mr. Garbers really said, as he was quoted as saying, that we "owe the state nothing," he was not a mile from the truth. For $1,004.40 does not go to the state as a state tax, as the alleged interview may be interpreted as meaning it would be the delinquency an admitted fact. Calling the amount an even $1,000 for convenience sake, $700 of it belongs to the city, as city taxes; $200 of it belongs to the country, as county taxes, and only $100 of it belongs to the state, as state taxes.

AN HOUR AND LIFE AND DEATH

On the occasion of what was presumed to be the fatal injury of three men at Onalaska Tuesday morning the police automobile with Dr. Egan and the pulmotor arrived at the scene in nine minutes. The ambulance made the trip in something more than an hour and a quarter.

Now this is no criticism of the ambulance service. We mention the incident as an illustration of the combination automobile ambulance and patrol such as Madison has, and which Chief Webber urges for the La Crosse department. We suggest that aldermen ask themselves what the difference between nine minutes and seventy-five minutes would mean to them were son, or brother, or wife of theirs injured and in a critical condition.

Student Song
They say that at the core of it
This life is all regret;
But we've scarce yet learned the lore
Of it.
We're only youngsters yet,
We only ask some more of it, more
Of it.
We only ask some more of it, more
Of it.
The less we're like to get.

Though ill may be the close of it,
It's fair enough to mourn;
And the manner to dispose of it
Is just to pluck the rose of it.
When first the rose is born,
Is first to pluck the rose of it, the rose of it, the rose of it.
Is just to pluck the rose of it,
The de'il may take the thorn!

The opinions of the old of it,
Depict a doleful land;
For the guide books that are sold
Of it.
The ill that we are told of it Would make Columbus stand.
But come, let's take a hold of it, a hold of it, a hold of it.
But come, let's take a hold of it,
With Alexander's hand.

When sages call the roll of it
How sad their looks appear!
But there's fire in every coal of it,
And hope in the soul of it,
And never a word of fear,
So love we then, the whole of it,
The whole of it, the whole
Of it.
So love we then the whole of it
For as long as we are here.
—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Didn't Make a Noise
A tourist in rural Scotland, who took refuge for the night in the cottage of an old lady, asked her to wake him early in the morning. He warned her that he was quite deaf and hoped that she would not disturb the other guests by any loud noises.

Upon awakening, much later than the appointed hour, he found that the old lady, with strict regard for the properties, had slipped under his door a slip of paper upon which was written:
"Sir, it's half past eight. Ye'd better get up."

A Druggist's Favorite Kidney Remedy Fixed Him

Fifteen years ago I had an attack of acute kidney trouble. I consulted a physician who gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time.
After discontinuing his medicine my trouble returned as severe as before.

Having heard of Swamp-Root I gave it a trial and can honestly state that three dollar bottles cured me, never having any sickness in fifteen years. I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as a druggist for many years and can give it the very best of recommendations at all times.

With A Laugh In Every Line

"Yes," answered Magee. His heart sank. What now?
"I must confess that I spied this morning," she went on. "It was rude of me, perhaps. But I think almost anything is excusable under the circumstances, don't you? I witnessed a scene in the hall above—Mr. Magee, I know who has the two hundred thousand dollars!"

"You know," cried Magee. His heart gave a great bound. At last!
And then—he stopped. "I'm afraid I must ask you not to tell me," he added sadly.

The girl looked at him in wonder.
She was of a type common in Maggee's world—delicate, finely-reared, sensitive. True, in her pride and haughtiness she suggested the sn-w-capped heights of the eternal hills. But at sight of those feminine heights Billy Magee had always been one to seize his alpenstock in a more determined grip, and climb.
Witness his attentions to the superb Helen Faulkner. He had a moment of faltering. Here was a girl who at least did not doubt him, who ascribed to him the virtues of a gentleman, who was glad to trust in him. Should he transfer his allegiance? No, he could hardly do that now.

"You ask me not to tell you," repeated the girl slowly.
"That demands an explanation," replied Billy Magee. "I want you to understand—to be certain that I would delight to help you if I could.
But the fact is that before you came I gave my word to secure the package you speak of for—another woman. I can not break my promise to her."

"I see," she answered. Her tone was cool.
"I'm very sorry," Magee went on.
"But as a matter of fact, I seem to be of very little service to any one.
Just now I would give a great deal to have the information you were about to give me. But since I could not use it helping you, you will readily see that I must not listen.
I'm sorry."

"I'm sorry, too," replied the girl.
"Thank you very much—for telling me. Now I must go forward—alone." She smiled unhappily.

"I'm afraid you must," answered
Billy Magee.

On the stairs appeared the slim
eyes were wistful, her face was pale. She came toward them through the red firelight. Mr. Mag-gee saw that a fool he had been to waver in his allegiance even for a moment. For he loved her, wanted her, surely. The snow-capped heights are inspiring, but far more companionable is the brook that sparkles in the valley.

"It's rather dull, isn't it?" asked Miss Norton of the Thornhill girl.
By the side of the taller woman she seemed slight, almost childish.
"Have you seen the pictures of the admiral, Miss Thornhill? Looking at them is our one diversion."

"I do not care to see them, thank you," Myra Thornhill replied, moving toward the stairs. "He is a very dear friend of my father." She passed up and out of sight.

Miss Norton turned away from the fire, and Mr. Magee rose hastily to follow. He stood close behind her, gazing down at her golden hair shimmering in the dark.

"I've just been thinking," he said lightly, "what an absolutely ridiculous figure I must be in your eyes, buzzing round and round like a bee in a bottle, and getting nowhere at all. Listen—no one has left the inn.
While they stay, there's hope. Am I not to have one more chance—a chance to prove to you how much I care?"

She turned, and even in the dusk
he saw that her eyes were wet.
"Oh, I don't know, I don't know,"
she whispered. "I'm not angry anymore. I'm just—at sea. I don't know what to think—what to do.
Why try any longer? I think I'll go away—and give up."

"You mustn't do that," urged Mag-
gee. They came back into the firelight. "Miss Thornhill has just informed me that she knows who has the package!"

"Indeed," said the girl calmly,
but her face had flushed.

"I didn't let her tell me, of course."

"Why not?" Oh, how maddening women could be!
"Why not?" Magee's tone was hurt. "Because I wouldn't use her information in getting the money for you."

"You are still going to get the money for me?"
Maddening, certainly, as a rough-edged collar.

"Of—" Magee began, but caught himself. No, he would prate no more of "going to." "I'll not ask you to believe it," he said. "Until I bring it to you and place it in your hand."

She turned her face slowly to his
and lifted her blue eyes.
"I wonder," she said. "I wonder."
The firelight fell on her lips, her hair, her eyes, and Mr. Magee knew that his selfish bachelordom was at an end. Hitherto, marriage had been to him the picture drawn by the pathetic exiled master. "There are no more pleasant bypaths down which you may wander, but the road lies long and straight and dusty to the grave." What if it were so?
With the hand of a girl like this in his, what if the pleasant by-paths of his solitude did bear hereafter the "No Thoroughfare" sign? Long the road might be, and he would rejoice in its length; dusty perhaps,

Why Should I Smoke
TUXEDO?

TUXEDO is the logical smoke for millionaires because it is impossible to buy a better tobacco.

Tuxedo is the logical smoke for the economical man because there are 40 pipefuls in a ten-cent tin—making the average cost per pipeful only one-fourth of a cent!

To buy cheaper tobacco means to get less pleasure out of smoking, because it is impossible to make a tobacco as good as Tuxedo at less than the Tuxedo price!

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is made of only the finest, choicest selected leaves of perfectly aged Burley tobacco. It is made by the original Tuxedo process which takes all the unpleasantness out of tobacco and leaves all the pleasantness in!

Tuxedo has a deliciously mild, fragrant aroma that is pleasant to all. It is the only tobacco you can smoke in a room full of lace curtains without leaving even a trace of an odor.

A trial will convince you that Tuxedo is superior to every other tobacco you have ever smoked.

but her smile through the dust would make it all worth while. He stooped to her.

"Give me, please," he said, "the benefit of the doubt." It was a poor speech compared to what was in his heart, but Billy Magee was rapidly learning that most of the pretty speeches went with puppets who could not feel.

Bland and Max came in from a brisk walk on the veranda. The mayor of Reuton, who had been dozing near the desk, stirred.

"Great air up here," remarked
Mr. Max, rubbing his hands before the fire. "Ought to be pumped down into the region of the white lights.
It sure would stir things up."

"It would put out the lights at ten p. m.," answered Mr. Magee,
"and incite other wholesome habits of living disastrous to the restaurant impressarios."

Miss Norton rose and ascended the stairs. Still the protesting Magee

Evidence Was There

At a recent dinner in a suburban district, where all the guests were amateur chicken raisers, after a discussion of the egg problem, the conversation turned to the best breed of hens. After the good points of Orpington, Minorcas, Leghorns and others had all been brought forth,
the host said:

"Well, the ultimate end of every chicken is the pot, and you can't tell the difference when it is on the table. Let's see how many can tell what kind of a hen we have just eaten."

All agreed it was a very good kind; but there were many guesses as to the breed. The only child at the table, a 12 year old boy, was the one who guessed correctly.

The host beamed on him and said:
"Jimmie, how did you know it was a Plymouth Rock?"

"Oh, that was easy," he replied.
"I found a feather in the gravy."

A Common Ailment

A story now going the rounds in Wall street is considered apropos by certain brokers. It is told in this way:
A man went to a well known stomach specialist in New York and complained of mysterious pains in his stomach. The doctor looked him over, and finally gave him three small tablets, one of which he was to take each night for three nights and then he was to report to his advisor.

When the time limit expired the patient appeared. "Doctor," he said,
"I am no better. In fact I might say I am worse."

"Well," replied the physician, "I must investigate this case thoroughly. What is your age?"
"Forty-five."
"What is your business?"
"I am a stock broker."

A light broke over the doctor's face.
"Well," he cried, "now I know what is the matter with you. You need a square meal. Here take this dollar and get a good filling in."

He said: "And, mamma, even if they are just in the middle of sweeping the floor, they drop the broom and rush off to the fire, and even in the night time when they are in bed, if the bell rings they jump up and dress and go to the fire—cause if they didn't do that, when they got there the fire would be all out."—The Delineator.

A Confiding Victim

"Lie still, where, and I won't hurt
you. All I want is your money and your jewels and then I'll git."

"All right, old man, and while you're searching for the jewels, if you run across my dress shirt studs
I wish you'd put them out on the dresser. I haven't been able to find them for a month."

case of smallpox was discovered today in the municipal barracks, where 1,200 unemployed men are quartered. Health Officer Marcellus demanded that the occupants submit to vaccination. Twenty-nine complied but the rest refused. They want the plied indefinitely. The city authorities have not yet decided what to do.

EXPRESS COMPANIES CUT THEIR RATES

Parcel Post Believed to Have Resulted in a Big Drop in the Tariffs

Reduced express rates will become effective on Feb. 1 and an announcement to this effect has been made by the Adams, American, National, United States, Wells Fargo and Western companies.

There is nothing in the circular of information to agents to indicate the cause of the revised schedules, but it is believed that the parcel post has brought about lower express rates, as the reductions will be marked on small shipments.

An example of the old rates compared to the new rates is a reduction from 65 to 32 cents on the shipment of a five pound package of merchandise from New York to St. Louis.

It is believed that the new rates will present an opportunity to increase such business as handling baggage and traveling men's samples. One of the obstacles to baggage traffic in the past resulted from the combination of local charges of two or more express companies on comparatively short hauls. Under the new block tariffs this difficulty is eliminated, as it does not matter whether one or more express companies are involved in the transportation of a shipment of express matter. The charge is the same in any event.

MRS. SAM SMITH CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Samuel Smith died at 2:30 yesterday morning at the home of her son, Thomas Harland, 1216 Kane street. Mrs. Smith was eighty-one years of age and death resulted from the infirmities of old age. Up until about a year ago, Mrs. Smith resided at Norwalk, but since that time has made her home with her son. She is survived by two brothers, Frank and William Ferris of Norwalk, one son, Mr. Harland, and one step son, Fred Smith. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence. The remains will be laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 21.—Ray J. Hart of Watertown, S. D., and Miss Emma Griffin of Clark, S. D., students at the University of Wisconsin, were married during the Christmas vacation. Hart was a sophomore and Miss Griffin a freshman. The secret came out when Hart returned to Madison recently after a trip to Minnesota. His wife met him at the train, and they proceeded to the Park hotel, where they registered as Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hart.

Hart is 23, and his bride is just 18. Incidentally the marriage marks another victory for the Home Economics department of the university, in which Miss Griffin pursued her studies before entering into wedded life. There is a well grounded rumor that about 50 per cent of the home economics students become engaged before they are graduated.

DOROW IS GUILTY SOBS AT VERDICT

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 21.—Harry Dorow was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury in municipal court. An agreement was reached at 7:45 o'clock last night, three hours after the jury went out, and was read aloud in the courtroom at 8:09 o'clock by Clerk Walter Wilde.

Dorow, who sat bolt upright on the edge of his chair as the clerk began to read, crumpled into a sobbing heap as he heard the word, guilty, which condemned him to spend the rest of his life in Waupun penitentiary.

DOCTORED WITHOUT RELIEF PERUNA SAVED HER.

Mrs. Thomas Hoover, R. F. D. No. 1, Montague, Mass., writes: "As I doctored over a year without any relief and kept getting worse, I gave up all hope of ever getting well again. I was all run down, could eat scarcely anything. I was nervous and had such terrible pains in my right side and shoulder."

"I cannot express how grateful I feel for Peruna."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

For sale and recommended by O. T. Erhart.

GRUES BRING RESCUE TO MAN IN RIVER

WINONA, Minn., Jan. 21.—The noise he made in churning the icy water as he struggled in an effort to lift himself upon a huge cake of ice in the Mississippi river, brought rescue to William Bowers of Pickwick, who was heard by a boat house dweller along the river.

Calls brought a faint answer from Bowers. With a ladder and rope, rescuers finally reached him and drew him ashore exhausted.

He was unable to explain how he had come to fall into the river.

FRIEND HELD FOR DEATH OF SHERIFF

FORSYTH, Mont., Jan. 21.—William Moses, sheriff of Rosebud county, was shot and killed at 3 p. m. Monday at Rosebud, and John H. Burgess, at one time a bosom friend of the sheriff and former deputy, is a prisoner in the county jail, charged with the shooting.

Moses went to Rosebud in the afternoon to attend an auction sale and while there was given a warrant to serve, charging Burgess with disturbing the peace.

Moses went to the Burgess home and while standing on the porch, Mrs. Burgess came to the door with a Winchester rifle and the gun was discharged accidentally, it is said. Burgess was standing on the porch, and the firing began immediately. One shot struck the sheriff in the neck just below the chin, while another entered his breast. Mrs. Burgess received a bullet wound in the left shoulder.

LIVES THREE YEARS WITH BROKEN NECK

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 21.—Arrangements are being made today for the funeral of Walter S. Graham, who for the past three years has lived with a broken neck, baffling the efforts of the most skilled surgeons in the northwest. Young Graham was injured while diving from a pier at Lake Minnetonka during the summer of 1910.

MINNESOTA MASOSS MEET IN ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, Jan. 21.—Five hundred Masons of Minnesota are expected in St. Paul today to attend the annual communication of the grand lodge. The Veterans' association will hold its annual banquet at the temple this evening. This will be the only social feature of the two meetings. Although the Veterans have no official connection with the grand lodge, their meetings are held at the same time.

At 12:30 p. m. today Grand Master W. Hayes Laird of Winona will deliver his annual address, and at 2:30 p. m. Grand Orator Rev. Frank Doran of St. Paul will speak. Both addresses will be delivered in the auditorium of the temple.

COUPLE MARRIED THROUGH JAIL BARS

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D., Jan. 21.—While Mrs. Jessie Tunley joined hands with George Vandercar through the bars of the latter's cell in the county jail here, a justice of the peace pronounced them man and wife.

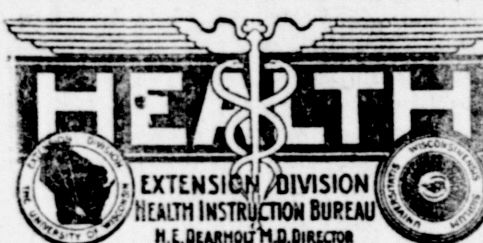

Vandercar recently was arrested in Canada on a charge of stealing horses from a ranch near here. Mrs. Tunley followed him. She says she will clear him of the charges.

RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Linger up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had back ache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

EAR ACHES

Dropping hot oil in the outer ear to stop ear ache is not a safe procedure. Hot water is equally efficacious. Slight ear ache is frequently entirely relieved by a hot mustard footbath. If pain persists after so simple a remedy, home treatment isn't safe treatment. Persistent pain is a sign of serious enough disorder to call for the service of a competent physician. When pus accumulates behind the ear drum, the drum should be punctured. It's much safer and less painful than to wait for the drum to break under pressure. The bulging or other signs of inflammation are not to be recognized by inexperienced individuals.

Even sterilized oil in the ear is not cleanly. Nothing should be introduced into the outer ear which might complicate the internal inflammation should the drum break spontaneously, or should it be necessary to open it. Practically all effective treatment of the ear is indirect. Direct treatment is applied to nose and throat.

A very large proportion of permanent deafness is due to improper treatment of ear disease. Infections of the ear are mainly extensions of common "colds" in the head. Colds are prevalent now. If they are complicated by ear ache, good treatment by a good physician is a good investment.

A most important and serious complication of infections of the ear is mastoid disease. In this, the spongy bone behind the ear becomes infected. The area behind the ear is sensitive to gentle pressure. Pain or sensitiveness to touch should be considered as most important as a danger signal. In mastoid disease it is the practice of the best physicians to advise the opening and scraping away of diseased bone. Otherwise, there is grave danger that the disease may proceed to the coverings of the brain, with a possible fatal termination.

Deafness constitutes one of the most important causes of needless suffering and disability. More than most of our problems, correction lies with individual intelligence. In the case of contagious disease, for example, individual intelligence only counteracts, in part, the effects of general ignorance.

In this, and some other problems, knowledge of facts in itself constitutes the only safeguard necessary for the individual to protect himself and the children for whom he is responsible.

"I WOULD HAVE COME BACK"—LUND

Farm Hand Says He Knew He Did Wrong but Was Afraid to Return with Money

ARE INCLINED TO BE LENIENT

May Reduce Charge of $12 Per Month Worker Who Yielded to Temptation

Jacob Lund, the farm hand who stole $200 belonging to his employer, William Roberts, La Crosse county farmer, bears none of the earmarks of the crook and La Crosse county officials are disposed to show leniency in his case.

Lund, a mild mannered and fair haired boy of 22, is a Dane, and came to this country "to make his way" nine years ago. He found the streets not lined with gold and the much famed opportunity elusive.

He has worked as a common laborer and last summer was employed in Bangor as a ditch digger.

Three days before the robbery he secured employment from Roberts. He was to receive $12 per month and board.

Then came temptation. His employer, after drawing a large sum from the bank, left $200 in a bureau drawer. It was a long time between paydays and Lund took the money.

"Didn't you know that you had no chance to escape?" Lund was asked. "I was too scared to think about it."

"I was the answer. I just kept running. I walked all Sunday night. Then I thought that I had done wrong and wished I hadn't. I would have taken the money back, only I was afraid. I was about decided to go back anyway and then they caught me."

A charge of grand larceny has been preferred against Lund. He may be arraigned on a charge providing lighter penalties, however.

MILLION AND HALF SPENT IN STRIKES

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—Approved by the auditors today the books of the United Mine Workers of America, in biennial convention here, showed the income for last year to have been $2,159,021.69, and the expenditures $2,163,201.44. Aid in strikes and for other semi-charitable purposes took $1,621,942.67.

This report did not include the moneys in district, sub-district and local treasuries, amounting to more than $2,000,000.

A telegram from striking miners at Trinidad, Col., was read to the 1,700 delegates. "Our liberty is in your hands," said the message, after expressing greetings and the hope that the convention would be a success.

HEAD OF CHURCH DELIVERS SERMON

Chief of Norwegian Lutheran Denomination in U. S. Speaks Over Body of Rev. Guldbranson

With a funeral sermon delivered by the head of the Norwegian Lutheran church in America, and attended by prominent divines of his faith from all this section of the country, the body of Rev. Martin Guldbranson, president of the La Crosse district of the Norwegian Lutheran church, was laid to rest yesterday at his home in Blair, Wis.

Rev. Guldbranson died suddenly last Saturday. He was one of the most prominent pastors of the northwest in the Norwegian Lutheran church, and for years was head of the La Crosse district, having the spiritual guidance of more than fifteen congregations.

Rev. T. H. Dahl, of Minneapolis, foreman of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, delivered the funeral address. The obsequies were attended by eight other pastors of the denomination, who assisted in the ceremonies.

Among those attending were Rev. R. Andersen of La Crosse, Rev. O. Sovde of Coon Valley, Rev. Forness, of Winona, Minn., Rev. Rundesvedt of Westby and Rev. Mark Lund of Elroy.

Bishop T. H. Dahl, head of the Norwegian Lutheran church in America, preached the funeral sermon at the church. Rev. H. Roalkvam, Peterson, Minn., conducted the services at the house. In behalf of the district, Rev. R. Andersen of this city, who was a fellow student of Rev. Guldbranson, and graduated with him from Augsburg seminary in the class of 1882, delivered an appreciation.

The active pallbearers were the following pastors: S. O. Rundesvedt, Westby; E. O. Hofstad, Virgo; C. H. Gjelseth, Nelson; M. Finstad, Virgo; A. V. Langehaug, Eleva, and L. S. Marvick, Black River Falls.

The honorary pallbearers were Rev. T. H. Dahl, Minneapolis; Rev. H. Rasmussen, Blooming Prairie; Rev. A. Forness, Winona; Rev. A. J. Orke, Pigeon Falls; Rev. R. Andersen, La Crosse; Rev. J. C. Helms, Strum, Wis.; Rev. H. A. R. Helms, Wautoma, Wis.; Rev. S. S. Urberg, Blair; Rev. D. T. Borgen, Taylor; Rev. J. Mattson, Mauston; Rev. H. Roalkvam, Peterson, Minn.; Rev. O. Sovde, Coon Valley.

The funeral was held at the home of the deceased, where the body was laid out.

FEDS WARN OFF NATIONAL LEAGUE

Send Wire to Philadelphia Club that They Will Permit No Tampering with Players

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The first official notice to "Keep hands off" players under contract was served today on the National league by the Federal league. A terse telegram dispatched to the Philadelphia National club states in no uncertain language the policy to be pursued by the Federals. The message follows:

"Chicago, Ill.—President Baker, Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, Philadelphia: We hereby officially notify you that Ad Brennan and William Killiter have signed contracts with the Chicago Federals and have received advance money. Both our players and their contracts will be protected.

JAMES A. GILMORE, President Federal League. EDWIN E. GATES, Counselor."

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—Bill Killiter, star catcher of the Phillies, signed a three year contract yesterday with the Phillies and repudiated his contract with the Federals, according to announcement made today by President Baker of the Phillies.

Under power of attorney, he also signed a similar contract for Addie Brennan, his battery mate.

COMRADES BURY VETERAN TODAY

A volley over an open grave in the Catholic cemetery today marked the close of the career of John Moore, civil war veteran, who died at his home in La Crescent last Sunday morning. The body was buried here with military honors by local members of the G. A. R., who acted as pallbearers and furnished a firing-squad. The funeral in La Crescent this morning was held from the Catholic church, where Rev. Henry Dolle recited a requiem high mass. Mr. Moore fought through the war in the Third battery of the Minnesota light artillery.

ST. LOUIS WANTS 12 STATE REGION

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 21.—St. Louis wants to include twelve states—Missouri, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Southern Illinois and Southern Indiana—in the territory of St. Louis federal reserve bank. This was the bulk of the testimony before Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston, the federal reserve organization committee, who went into session today to consider the city's claim for one of the largest regional banks for the southwest.

A. V. STYLEN DIES

August V. Stylen, aged 23, son of Peter C. Stylen, a Stoddard farmer, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at a local hospital, after an unsuccessful operation for appendicitis. He is survived by his father, six sisters and one brother. The funeral will be held Saturday at 1 o'clock from the home and later from the Lower Coon Valley church.

NIEMEYER'S LEG BROKEN

Ernest Niemeyer, 316 South Twenty-third street, suffered a broken leg yesterday afternoon when he fell at Fourth and Pearl streets. He was running to catch a car at the time of the accident.

REAL ESTATE MEN ELECT

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 21.—The fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers came to a close here this morning with the election of officers and the naming of Eau Claire as the 1915 convention city. The officers are as follows: President, Fred H. Schulz, Racine; first vice president, W. A. Hamilton, Milwaukee; second vice president, C. P. Crosby, Rhinelander; secretary, F. A. Kraemer, Madison; treasurer, W. C. Schilling, Green Bay; trustees, A. C. Ellingson, Hawkins, and W. A. Lathrop, Lancaster.

PRISON CHAPLAIN DIES

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 21.—Rev. P. C. Johnson, for forty-four consecutive years a Methodist minister and chaplain of the Nebraska penitentiary under three administrations, died last night at the prison.

SCOTCH CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

The anniversary of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, will be the occasion of a Scottish concert at the First Methodist church, corner of King and Eighth street, tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock sharp. Talent from abroad will be assisted by home talent and it is expected that some pleasant surprises will be added to the printed program, during the exhibition of Scottish scenes by Rev. T. Stanley Oadams. A Scotch buffet lunch will be served following the concert, with oatcake, shortbread and scones on the menu.

TO FORM CHESS CLUB

This evening at 8 o'clock will be held at the Y. M. C. A. a meeting to effect the organization of a chess club for this city. All devotees of the game are asked to be present at the meeting and assist in the organization. A constitution will probably be drawn up and officers elected. Membership to the club will be open to everybody. Arrangements for a tournament will probably be made. A second meeting of the club will be held Saturday night at 7:45 at which Rev. W. E. Johnson will give a talk on the rudiments of the chess game. Specially arranged tables will be had for the playing of chess.

NEW LIGHT PLANT ORDERED BY BOARD

Neshonoc Light and Power Co. Must Furnish Plans for Approval in Three Weeks

MUST ERECT PLANT IN 6 MONTHS

Settles Complaint of Village of West Salem that Their Service Is Inadequate

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—"It is ordered that the Neshonoc Light and Power company furnish to the commission within three weeks after the date hereof for approval, complete plans and specifications for an hydro-electric power and light plant to be built at the site of the present plant in such a manner as to allow for additional units to be installed, and that within six months after the approval of such plans and specifications by the commission, the said company shall have completed said plant and installed all of the equipment recommended by the engineers of the commission."

This is the mandate of the railroad commission relative to the power plant at the village of West Salem. Complaint was made that the present service was inadequate and Senator Bossard of La Crosse appeared before the commission to present this view. The commission's decision today indicates that an immediate improvement of service is necessary.

THE JUDGE HELD IN EFFECT THAT THE LAW WAS DISCRIMINATORY, THAT IT DEMANDED AN ACT ON THE PART OF PHYSICIANS THAT COULD NOT BE CARRIED INTO EFFECT FOR THE MAXIMUM PRICE FEE THAT WAS FIXED BY THE ACT, AND THAT THE LAW WAS CONTRARY TO PUBLIC POLICY. HE ISSUED AN ORDER COMMANDING THE CLERK OF COURT TO GRANT LICENSES WHEN UNACCOMPANIED BY PHYSICIANS' HEALTH CERTIFICATES.

While the case will go to the Supreme court, Assistant District Attorney Sloan announced in court that he could take no appeal until ordered to do so by the county board.

Owen O. K's Appeal

Attorney General Walter C. Owen of Wisconsin today authorized Assistant District Attorney H. S. Sloan of Milwaukee county, to appeal from the decision handed down by Judge Eschweiler in the district court here declaring unconstitutional and void the eugenic marriage law. According to Sloan the appeal will come at once.

The stay of fifteen days granted by the court after handing down the decision today prevented serious confusion at the office of the license clerk. When the office opened today half a dozen couples were in line to ask for licenses without health certificates, but these were refused because the court's order had not yet gone into effect. The number of applicants grew greater as the day advanced but at noon the news that no licenses would be issued without a certificate spread and the number fell off again.

Opposition developed today among members of the Milwaukee county board on the proposition to appeal the case. Several board members were in favor, they said, of letting Eschweiler's decision stand.

HARRY TAGGART WILL TRAIN MEMBERS OF NEW ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION IN ART OF SELF DEFENSE

Members of the new athletic association which was formed here recently, will receive boxing lessons, starting this evening, when a class will be organized by Harry Taggart at the association's gymnasium in Germania hall. Mr. Taggart is recognized as the best amateur boxer in the city, and a big crowd of youths is expected to attend to pick up the rudiments of the art of self defense.

The club's classes in the new dances, Aubrey Richmond and Lu Walters, masters, will begin Monday evening. A quartet of young ladies has been procured to illustrate the steps and after the first few weeks, the Monday evening dancing classes will be turned into informal dances for the members and their ladies.

FARMER DIES HERE

John F. Kerrigan, aged 43, a well known farmer of Pine Creek, Minn., died yesterday morning at 6:30 at a local hospital, following a short illness with a complication of diseases. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning from the house and at 10:30 from the La Crescent Catholic church, Rev. Henry Dolle officiating. Interment will be made at the La Crescent cemetery.

Commands Clerk to Grant Licenses When There Is No Physician's Certificate

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 21.—Shortly after the decision of Judge Eschweiler had been read on Tuesday, in which he declared the eugenic marriage law unconstitutional, an applicant for a marriage license entered the office of County Clerk Louis G. Widule and demanded a marriage license.

When asked if he had a medical certificate of health, the applicant said that he had none and that he did not need it as a physician had already told him that the law was "no good."

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 21.—Shortly after the decision of Judge Eschweiler had been read on Tuesday, in which he declared the eugenic marriage law unconstitutional, an applicant for a marriage license entered the office of County Clerk Louis G. Widule and demanded a marriage license.

When asked if he had a medical certificate of health, the applicant said that he had none and that he did not need it as a physician had already told him that the law was "no good."

The county clerk refused to give him a license. Mr. Widule said that until he was officially notified that Judge Eschweiler had ruled against the eugenic law he would still refuse to grant marriage licenses unless the applicant has complied with the statute of the legislature relative to the eugenic law.

Since Judge Eschweiler granted a stay of execution of his decision for fifteen days no action by the county clerk will be taken until the matter is taken up at the meeting of the county board on Jan. 27. It will be determined then whether or not the district attorney, representing the county clerk, will be instructed to appeal to the Supreme court from the decision of Judge Eschweiler.

The judge held in effect that the law was discriminatory, that it demanded an act on the part of physicians that could not be carried into effect for the maximum price fee that was fixed by the act, and that the law was contrary to public policy. He issued an order commanding the clerk of court to grant licenses when unaccompanied by physicians' health certificates.

While the case will go to the Supreme court, Assistant District Attorney Sloan announced in court that he could take no appeal until ordered to do so by the county board.

PROFESSOR IN WRONG

SUED FOR $20,000 FOR NEGLIGENCE WOMAN SAYS HE GAVE HER FOR "IMMORAL AGREEMENT"

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Because of the collapse, during the night of the Baroness May De Pallandt, a Menominee, Mich., woman, the suit against her by Dr. Ernest Thomas Villiers Appleby, formerly a professor of the University of Minnesota, today was postponed for a week. The baroness suffered an attack of heart failure.

The basis of Appleby's action is the suit against him by a Paris Jeweler for $20,000, the balance of payment on a $65,000 necklace for the baroness. Appleby declared that he simply signed the note of the baroness as a friendly act and she promised to pay when the obligation fell due. The defense of the baroness was that Appleby's generosity was a gift in return for "an immoral agreement." Evidence in support of this contention brought out allegations that Appleby and the baroness lived together intermittently and in many cities from 1903 to 1908. During that time, Appleby said, he gave the woman thousands of dollars, won at Monte Carlo by an infallible system. In turn, she said, she gave him much money.

The judge held in effect that the law was discriminatory, that it demanded an act on the part of physicians that could not be carried into effect for the maximum price fee that was fixed by the act, and that the law was contrary to public policy. ENGLISH GIRL WITH "NERVES" AND WEAK HEART FIRST WOMAN TO "LOOP THE LOOP"

Miss Trehawke Davies in Hamel's aeroplane just before her flight.

If you were a charming young woman with everything to live for, and your family physician informed you that you had a weak heart and "nerves," would you do what Miss Trehawke Davies, the beautiful English girl shown here, did? Just to prove to the doctor that she had nerve and not "nerves," as he put it, and that her heart though weak still was staunch, she induced Gustav Hamel to take her as his passenger in his "loop the loop" feat during the recent aeronautic meet at Hendon, near London. The aviator and Miss Davies executed a perfect loop at a height of 500 feet.

WHY DOCTORS NO LONGER CLAIM TO "CURE" PEOPLE

A few years ago it was a common thing for the family doctor to say, "I will cure you in a few days." This cheerful prophecy often gave the patient new hope and courage but it is no longer good form. Doctors still "cure" malaria and a few other troubles in which their medicines have a direct or "specific" action on the virus of the disease. In other cases they simply give supporting medicine and keep up the strength of the patient until nature effects a cure.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure chlorosis and other trouble due to thin blood because they have a specific action on the blood, building it up, purifying and enriching it. This direct action on the blood also makes them the best supporting and strengthening medicine. If you are thin and weak, breathless after slight exertion, if you have palpitation of the heart, gas on the stomach, cold hands and feet, if you are nervous and easily irritated and show other signs of weakened vitality, try these strengthening pills at once and let the rich, red blood cure you. Get a box today at the nearest drug store and begin at once to build up your health. Write now to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."

MAXWELL DEALERS HOLD CONVENTION

Sub-Dealers Hold Enthusiastic Meeting as the Guests of Rybold-Weihaupt Co.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of the meeting of the sub-dealers and prospects of the Rybold-Weihaupt Auto Co., held yesterday afternoon at the Jefferson hotel.
Mr. C. R. Newby, district manager, and Mr. H. H. Howe, district sales manager of the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation, were in charge of the meeting, and spoke very interestingly on the automobile situation as applied to the new models of the Maxwell car which are just being placed on the market. Many interesting sidelights were thrown on the history of the industry, and considered from a viewpoint of education alone, their talks were of great value to the convention.

Mr. R. W. Malkin and Mr. O. W. MacDonald, special demonstrators for the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation, were in attendance and helped to keep up the enthusiasm. This meeting is one of a number of similar meetings being held in various parts of the district for the purpose of bringing the various dealers together for an exchange of ideas, and to enable them to meet on a purely informal basis the various officers of the company.

Mr. Martin Rybold of the Rybold-Weihaupt Auto Co., addressed the convention and dwelt at length on the desirability of co-operation as a means to the best results. This company has but recently taken over the Maxwell agency and have already sold a great many cars. They have about twenty-five active sub-dealers in this territory. A lunch was served, and the meeting was more like a family gathering than a convention of business men.

Among those in attendance were Martin Larsen of Viroqua; E. Steneman and C. J. Herbert of Arcadia; Andrew Halvorsen, Houston, Minn.; A. D. Paetsch of Fountain City; L. Waters, C. Frederick and B. W. Raabe of Kendall; Henry Scheffke, W. W. Quackenbush and T. F. Drannan of Melrose; Jesse Bates of Sparta, and E. L. Maloy and F. Fieting of Tomah. PRAIRIE DU CHIEN.

A tragedy marked the wedding morning of Miss Mary Bauer of this city, whose banns to wed William Doser had been three times called in St. Gabriel's church and whose marriage feast had been prepared and guests invited for an all day wedding celebration on Tuesday.

Mrs. Barbara Bauer, the mother, arose at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning to complete the preparations for the happy event and at 5:30 she died instantly of heart failure, falling to the floor as she walked across the room.

The wedding ceremony was quietly performed a few hours later by Rev. Fr. P. Becker at St. Gabriel's church.

The groom, William Doser, has for some time had charge of Mrs. Bauer's business and will continue to conduct the same. Mrs. Bauer leaves five children, two daughters, Mrs. Doser and Miss Emma and three sons, John, Charles and Ed. She was fifty-five years of age. Her funeral will be held on Wednesday morning from St. Gabriel's.

At a meeting of the Twentieth Century club held Tuesday afternoon next Monday was decided upon as the date for inaugurating a system of social chains for the benefit of the city library similar to the chains given last year. On Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock each of the members of the club will entertain a group of five or more guests, each one of these in turn to entertain five more and so on. Last year $104.50 was realized in a few weeks, the money being used for the purchase of new books.

Bishop Quayle of St. Paul, will be in the city next Sunday and will deliver an evening address at the M. E. church.

Rev. W. A. Munday of Lancaster, will hold services next Sunday at Trinity Episcopal church.

C. B. Case is employed as bookkeeper at the Prairie du Chien Woolen Mills.

Old-Time Cold Cure—Drink Tea
Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee" at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.
It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

LORD STRATHCONA SINKING

FADS AND FANCIES OF FASHION

IN spite of the fact that this has been a mild season, January brings the usual demand for costumes adapted to the South and there are apparently just as many trips planned to the sunny clime as if we were ice- and snow-bound here at the North; consequently while we wear our furs, even if more from courtesy than from need, we are seeing wonderful creations that are actually summer gowns, and such fabrics made of cotton as once would have seemed part of a fairy dream. There are nets that are as dainty and lovely as can be imagined, there are crêpes that are wonderfully embroidered and that are exquisite in their soft beauty, and there are voiles and marquisettes that could not be more beautiful were they woven of the costliest silk, while among heavier fabrics are to be found replicas of the velvet finished material of the winter that are as wonderful in their depth of color and as beautiful in surface as were those that greeted our eyes with the opening of the autumn season. Cotton duvetyne and cotton broadcords velours are to be found in all the prevailing colors and, in spite of the fact that we have grown accustomed to such conditions, there still remains some sense of the marvelous that cotton can be dyed to such depth and quality.

We expect a season of sports coats and for them will be used these materials in bright colors, orange, hunter's green, tango red and the like, and these fabrics show them in fascinating variety. There is cotton duvetyne in ribbed or corduroy effect, too, that makes extremely beautiful coats and our old friend, sponge, is by no means forgotten. It is offered this season in stripes, in plain colors and in the broadcords effects that are so extremely handsome, while there are some novelties showing embroidered flowers on white stripes with plain black between. Apparently there is no very special effort being made in the direction of bordered materials but there are certain of these to be found that are too beautiful to escape mention. The Oriental influence in color is still at work and some of the cotton crêpes show borders machine embroidered in Oriental effects that are really superb and there are dainty bordered nets and voiles that afford an interesting and striking contrast. Stripes are important this season. The new goods show them in varying styles and widths but what is known as awning stripes, rather wide stripes of color and white in equal widths, are conspicuous. It is predicted that they will be used for entire gowns to be worn with sports coats of the most brilliant hues but just what women will and will not wear when it comes to the actual selection of colors and designs, it is always difficult to forecast. Paris showed a great many of these wide stripes at the autumn races and usually the conditions found there forecast our own of the coming spring but the combination is a somewhat aggressive one and, while it may suit a few women who can afford to order gowns for one of two occasions, it is not likely to be generally used. Prettier by far are the narrower stripes of dark colors against white backgrounds and of these there are a great many shown. Plaids and checks appear also but perhaps more often in sponge than in other materials and the new colorings are soft and springlike, by no means aggressive. We are promised suits of two materials in generous numbers and it is likely that these plaid fabrics will be used for coats, jackets and trimming on plain colors to give exceedingly smart effects.

White serge continues to be a favorite for the all-round useful tailored suit but there will be a good deal of white gabardine and of white sponge worn and undoubtedly white cotton duvetyne will be used both for costumes and for coats to be worn over linen and other fabrics. Hats are extremely short, jaunty little affairs, suggesting the bolero or tunic but with elongated backs and Japanese sleeves are almost universal. Such models suit the duvetyne admirably well and the material is likely to be used for dressy little coats as well as for those in sports style. For afternoon gowns, nothing takes precedence of white and white this season means crêpe, voile and net elaborately embroidered with shadow laces and plain materials used in combination. How such wonderful embroideries are worked upon such filmy foundations remains something of a mystery but the results appear and, while in style and cut, the gowns are comparatively simple, they are really ornate with needle work.

Tunics are almost universal. It would seem as though the single skirt would be seen only with the tailored suit and by no means generally there. Draperies are conspicuous, too, ornamented with rich embroideries and the beautiful folds formed by draperies of the soft materials are wonderfully lovely in the daintiest, most aristocratic way. Lace is used moderately if at all and, when seen, of the heavy Irish sort but there is a novelty shown in the way of filet flouncing, or bordered filet net, which is exceedingly handsome and which combined with filet lace makes most attractive and most unusual gowns. As a matter of course, all these materials are made over silk slips and very frequently there is a girle of vivid color in deference to the Eastern influence that is so evidently at work. Brilliant orange, tango red and deep rich greens are favorites and the effect often is superb. The little wraps that are so necessary with summer gowns are made in bright colors, too, and the most fascinating little loose coats are shown made of the duvetyne in the brilliant hues with frequently a finish of embroidery in matching colors that adds to the general richness of effect. Altogether fashions are somewhat sumptuous and, noting just the general effect of richness and depth of color, it is a little difficult to realize that, for the most part, they are obtained with the use of that cotton which not so long ago we relegated to simple fabrics and simple costumes.

Mid-Winter Costumes Show Interesting Features

By May Manton

Net is almost a craze, just the durable cotton net, and it is extensively used in plain white, in white printed with colors and in plain colors. Some of the flowered nets are exquisitely dainty and there are embroidered nets that are real marvels of beauty. Handsome costumes frequently show the net combined with chiffon taffeta and this taffeta may be white or colored but the gown for the South seems to bespeak extreme daintiness and all white or white with bits of color in girle and trimming prevails. An elaborate gown is made of embroidered net over plain and very often one sees tunic and blouse embroidered while the skirt is either plain net or shadow net. Combinations of plain net with embroidered batiste are conspicuous also and embroidered crêpes are really beautiful as tunics and blouses over skirts of shadow lace, and, even when the gown is largely of crêpe, the thinner net is likely to appear as part of the blouse and sleeves. To be smart the bodice portion of every costume must be something transparent and nothing seems to serve the purpose quite so well as the net that apparently has taken the dressmaking world by storm.

Hats for the South are largely Panamas simply draped with scarfs of chiffon or soft silk but, as a matter of course, there are more elaborate models offered and among them the tulle draped straws and hats made entirely of tulle plaiting are conspicuous. A handsome one is of Leghorn with the conventional wide, soft brim and low, round crown. On the brim is arranged a wreath of wild flowers and the entire hat is veiled with black tulle. Straws show various shapes but, for the most part, are small and rather close-fitting. A pretty one is in gold color with the edges finished with tiny fur while there is just a single upstanding ornament of rather brightly colored flowers arranged on a stem. A picturesque model is rather wide but short from front to back and consists of just a mass of plaited pink tulle held by a wide band of ribbon passing over the center and little knots of flowers that give a French effect. So far as can be gathered from the early spring showing, small hats will continue for general wear but it is likely that the wide brimmed sort after the manner of the Leghorn described will be used with elaborate white costumes, which they suit far better than any other sort. The veiling of black tulle is interesting and black used in just such ways is among the smartest of all things. Since a touch of black always gives distinction to any toilette, the hat so treated is certain of good effect.

THE NEW COTTON FABRICS SEEM ESPECIALLY ADAPTED TO EMBROIDERY

BY MAY MANTON

MIDWINTER is always the time for displaying new and lovely fabrics designed for warm weather wear and this year the cottons are marvelously beautiful. They include a really wonderful variety of colors and weaves but in spite of that fact, a great deal of pure white and of white embroidered with color will be worn and crêpe, voiles and marquisette are pronounced favorites for blouses and the like while among heavier fabrics are to be found beautiful cotton duvetyne, cotton velours and materials of the kind that are perfectly well adapted to the children's coats while there are piques, linens and the like in wonderful colors that are ideal for school frocks and uses of the kind.

The three blouses illustrated make excellent examples of the new models and each one shows needle work used in a smart way. The fichu collar shown on the blouse at the center is exceedingly dainty and as shown here it and the cuffs are of white cotton net embroidered while the blouse itself is made of embroidered voile and net as trimming will be extensively used throughout the season.

The two blouses with round necks show variations of the fashionable Japanese sleeves, one showing tucks over the shoulders while the other is plain. Incidentally, the tucked blouse shows a pretty use of ruffling. In both cases, the embroidery is worked by hand and the designs are unusually good ones, meaning only a small amount of labor while the effect is one of elaboration. The coming season is to be one of dainty effects. We will see embroidered accessories as well as embroidered blouses and needle work put to many uses. In the picture, the child's coat and the child's dress both are treated in this way and the coat is made of white duvetyne with collar, cuffs and belt of broadcloth, and broadcloth is one of the best of all materials for embroidery. The little frock at the right is made of blue linen serge with collar and cuffs of plain white hand embroidered in eyelet style and a white belt finished with scalloped edges. Both raised work and eyelet embroidery are fashionable and this design that consists of sprays of leaves and similar ones can be treated in either way, which is better depending entirely upon the material.

IN AND OUT THE NEW YORK SHOPS

By OLIVIA BELL

CHARMING dancing gowns of white net over white satin are shown, the skirts consisting of six finely plaited flounces each overlapping the last.

Corsage bouquets consist of marvelously natural looking flowers that are made entirely of fibre. They are durable of moderate cost.

Charming little Directoire fans with gilded sticks and ostrich feather tops are especially attractive for favors.

A new and practical auto box is light of weight and not bulky yet will carry three hats with safety and contains also a drawer for the storage of extra blouses and accessories.

Artistic place cards are made of bark taken from some Japanese tree and painted with the favorite Japanese blossoms.

Women who are interested in the making of new gowns or the re-making of old ones will like to know of new and brilliant accessories. They are made of net closely beaded and are to be found in bolero and jaunty little coat styles, in crystal and in jet and in combination of crystal and jet. Any one arranged over a blouse that has already seen service will completely transform it and effectually conceal any blemish.

This is a season of girldes and sashes. Girls will be especially interested in sashes of plaid silk finished with fringe ends, knotted to form tassels. Also there are shown black ribbon sashes with ends embroidered in pretty flower designs and weighted with jet fringe.

The shops are showing wonderful cotton goods in preparation for the warm weather and among them is batiste embroidered in tiny Dresden designs. The work, while actually machine done, gives the impression of needle work.

The spring will be a season of net as the winter has been. Young women and young girls in need of new dancing frocks will be glad of beautiful white cotton nets printed with wide borders of flowers in really exquisite colors. They are forty-four inches wide and cost only $2.00 a yard.

Mid-winter is apt to be the season of really cold weather. Women who find the open neck a little trying will do well to remember the satin mul-lers marabout-edges that are shaped to fit the neck and to give a vest effect at the front. They are extremely attractive, dainty little accessories as well as eminently comfortable ones.

It is evident that the Oriental influence in fashions will continue to some extent at least. Among new fabrics is to be seen cotton duvetyne in tango red, mandarin yellow, deep orange, hunter's green and the like. Already they are being made into sports coats to wear over white and black and white striped gowns.

Nothing makes prettier house gowns of the simpler sort than the soft wool fabrics. Women who realize this fact will be glad of the new French crêpes that are to be found in all the prevailing colors and are of exceedingly moderate price.

Separate waistcoats are being extensively worn with all outdoor costumes but women who ride will be especially interested in new ones of bright green satin that are especially picturesque with the black costume.

Really vivid tango colors are much liked by the younger contingent. Practical dancing costumes are shown of white net with over blouse and tunic of velvet in vivid red.

We are copying the Directoire in the matter of under-clothing at least. Fascinating little undergarments are shown with real Directoire brassieres attached to which are narrow skirts of white crêpe de chine.

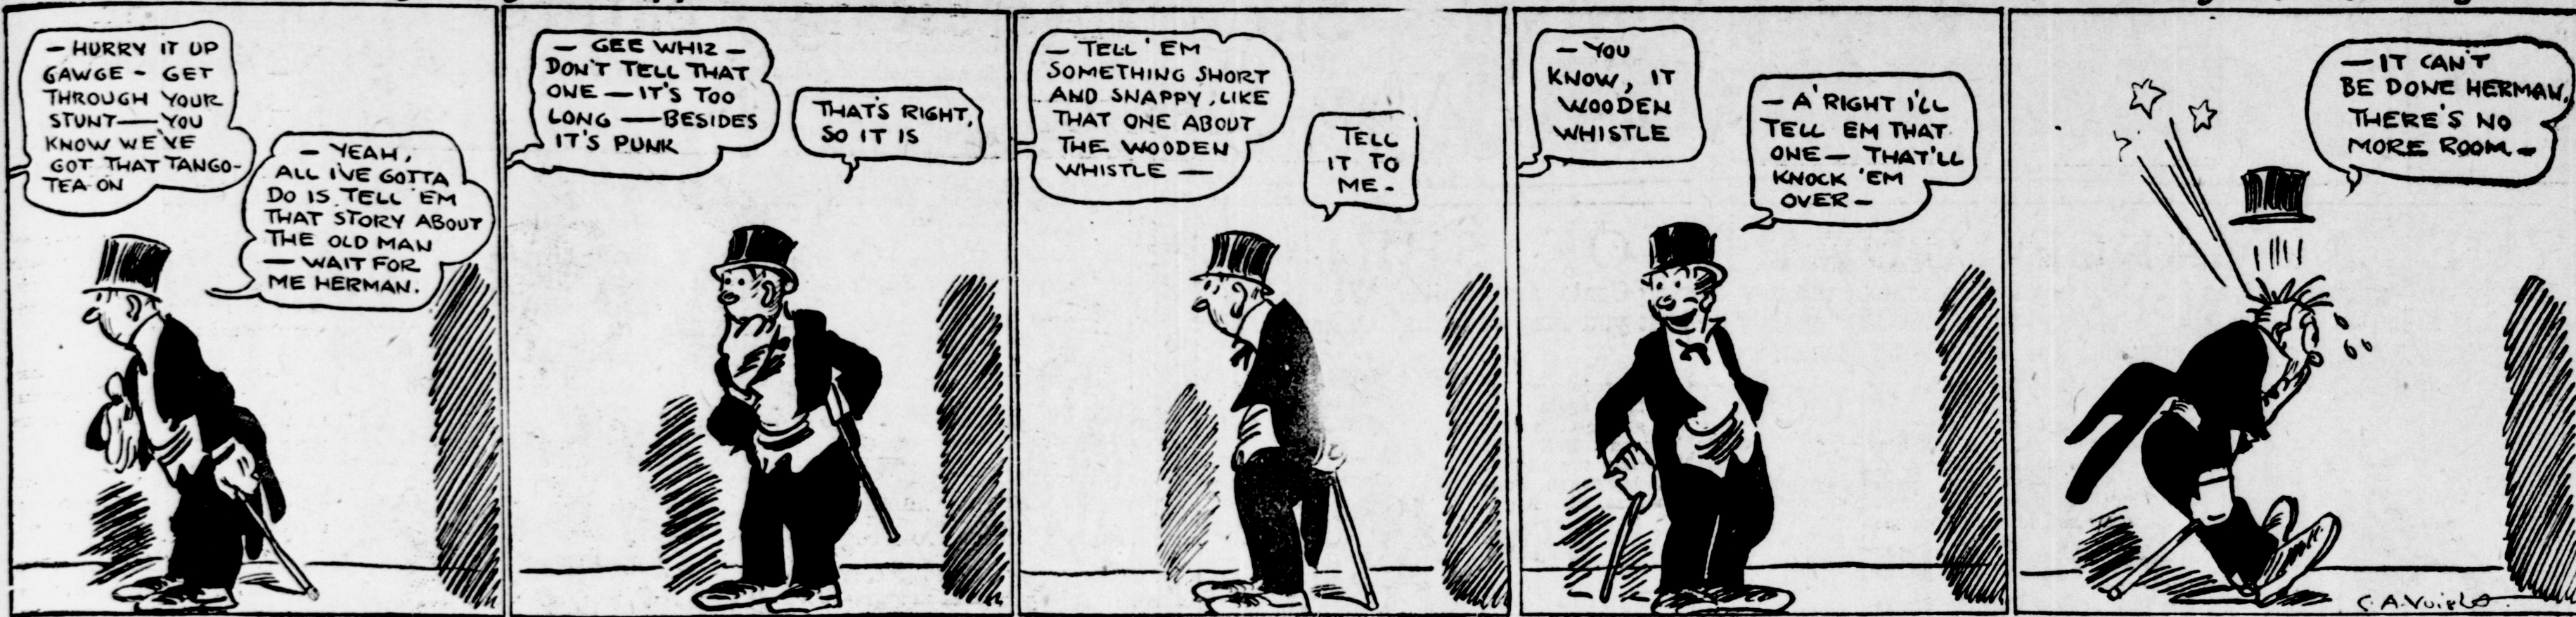

Nothing more completely transforms a plain gown than a dainty fichu. New and fascinating ones are made of Lierre lace. Banding makes the inner portion and flouncing the frills that fall over the shoulders. Sometimes there is a touch of the fur that is always beautiful with lace.

New styles in dancing slippers constantly are appearing. Among the latest are those that combine satin with broadcords, the satin making the toe portions and the heels and the broadcords the sides and back.

Dainty housewives are always on the outlook for something pretty and new in the way of maid's aprons. Attractive ones are made of cross barred dimity edged with Cluny lace.

Walking on Your Hat.

"Nothing is wasted in this house" is the proud remark which you may often hear from the lips of an expert housekeeper. It is a boast, however, that few people could really justify. Take the case of a worn-out derby hat. In the majority of instances this discarded article of headgear finds its way to the rubbish heap or perhaps into the hands of a passing tramp. If only people were aware of the fact, the most excellent felt soles for the inside of their boots and slippers are thus being discarded. These soles can be cut from the sides of an old hat and are much more comfortable than the ordinary cork ones.

A fellow naturally feels pretty small when he gets into a tight place.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The stock market opened active and strong. Commission houses reported an increase of public interest on the buying side today but professional interests were bearish. The death of Lord Strathcona did not affect Canadian Pacific, which opened up one-half.

11 a. m.—The market showed more activity in specialties than for some time past during the first hour. Standard issues held strong. A bullish activity in Canadian issues developed. Pressed Steel car was a strong specialty, advancing to 34, a rise of 2 points.

Noon.—The market showed a decided increase of strength and activity during the second hour and at noon stocks were strong at the highest figures reached during the present advance. All trunk line stocks were strong.

2 p. m.—New York Central was a strong feature, selling up to 94%, an advance of 2 1/2 points. Traders began to say the pace was getting too fast during the afternoon, but around 2 o'clock the market began to slow down.

The market closed steady. There was evidence of investment buying in all standard issues during the late afternoon.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A strong cable report sent wheat upward today and at noon prices were advanced 1/4c for May futures and fractionally for July over yesterday's close. Shorts bought heavily.

The cable was favorable to corn and the grain opened higher, but large resting orders to sell was a depressing factor and futures shaded off 1/4c below yesterday's closing quotations.

Oats started firmer with corn, but dull trading failed to brace the market and futures followed corn's decline.

A weak hog market affected provisions and quotations were lower all around.

Wheat was inactive in the afternoon session. Heavy receipts and large offers of corn depressed this grain and May futures shaded off a fraction from noon prices and July dropped 1/4c. Oats remained firm at noon prices.

Provisions braced and closing prices shaded slightly higher.

SAVAGES BEAT FARMERS?

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 21.—"Savages live better than farmers," said Paul Hansen, engineer of the state water survey, arguing for farm sanitation in an address before a thousand farmers attending the University of Illinois Agricultural short course.

"When the abode of a savage becomes filthy he moves, but the farmer stays," declared Hansen.

JOHNSON ISSUES PLAYERS WARNING

Says Any Tosser Who Deals with Federals Cannot Talk to Him

AND OUTSIDERS COP SOME MORE

Ford of Yanks, Willett of Tigers and Camnitz of Phillies Do Frog Act

(Written for the United Press.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—It's a dull day that doesn't bring some new major leaguer into the federal camp, but as the headline writers are getting accustomed to President Gilmore and his followers, they should soon pull off something real zippy, such as resurrecting a corpse, or something of that sort, such as Ban Johnson did yesterday. Johnson predicted the death of the Federal league Monday, but now comes out with the statement that any American league player sitting in on the wake need not expect to return to the Johnson fold.

Won't Talk to 'Em
"I hereby tell one and all that I will not even talk to them," says Johnson; the "herby" evidently indicating firm decision and the "one and all" including everybody, even the St. Louis Browns. Possibly Johnson has decided the Federals are not as dead as he thought, but if he hasn't changed his mind, who wants to sit in with a corpse?

The Federals announced that Pitchers Ford of the Yankees, Willett of Detroit and Camnitz of the Phillies joined their ranks yesterday. As Willett and Ford are American league men some reason is apparent for Johnson's "herby." Garnet Bush, Steve Cusack and Monte Cross were also signed up as umpires.

With Bill Killifer and Ad Brennan in Philadelphia the Federals are threatened with learning how it feels to be the owner of a jumper. The two Phillies will confer with President Baker and may frog back to their old team, it is declared. There was considerable activity in the old organizations in the signing line yesterday, the Athletics announced the receipt of contracts from all of the regulars with the exception of Plank, Coombs, Thomas and Danny Murphy. The Federals are thus free to claim them. Sherwood Magee has signed with the Phillies and Al Demaree's contract was received by the Giants. Catcher Henry and Outfielder Shanks were lined up by Clark Griffith. The National league also indicated that it would be able to start the season by announcing the schedule meeting would be held here February 30.

Chance Blames Murphy
Frank Chance is quoted from Los Angeles as saying that Charlie Murphy is responsible for the organization of the Federal league. Chance declared Murphy was "an objectionable figure."

Gets K. O. Quick
Young Otto, who was looked upon as a middleweight of some proportions some time ago, "came back" last night by knocking out Young Keats of Ohio in forty-seven seconds. Phil Bloom also got into action here, going to a draw with Benny Leonard.

Football Figures
Parke Davis of Princeton, member of the football rules committee, has compiled figures showing 400 colleges and 500 schools were represented by football teams last year. The total attendance for the games is estimated at nearly 13,000,000. Approximately 43,200 games were played and 150,000 players participated.

Served Alphabetically.
Roman emperors who feasted copiously and sumptuously had no menu card, so they often spoiled their enjoyment of a banquet by eating too much of one dish and passing over something they specially liked. According to Montaigne, one of the Roman emperors, devised an order for serving dishes which enabled him roughly to foretell what was coming next: "Geta, the emperor, would have all his messes or dishes served in at his table orderly, according to the first letters of their names, as for example, those that began with p, as pig, pie, pike, puddings, pouts, pork, pancakes, etc., were all served in together, and so of all the rest."

Green Sunsets.
Green sunsets seen by the Russian explorers in the polar regions have been matched in England. Throughout November and December of 1883 the sunsets and afterglows were of wonderful intensity and varied colors. At Chelsea especially the sun went down over the Thames amid a blaze of unearthly beauty ranging from deepest red to green, as may be seen in a series of water color sketches made at the time and now preserved in the Chelsea free library. Sir Norman Lockyer and other astronomers attributed these winter sunsets to the volcanic dust projected by the great eruption of Krakatoa, in Java, in the previous August.

Six Round Preliminary

Billy De Foe vs. Joe Bishop
Red Wing Milwaukee

Both of these boys are fast and clever and will put up a bout that will bring the fans to their feet. Bishop is known as the miniature edition of Jimmy Clabby, and De Foe has earned a great reputation in the Northwest.

Eight Round Semi Wind-up

Joe Welling vs. Jack Williams
Chicago Chicago

Welling fought his way into the hearts of local fight fans and is sure to exert himself. Williams is a slugger who is always boring in and fighting every minute. The winner of this bout will be in line for some of the big ones.

TEN ROUND WIND-UP

Art Nelson vs. Spike Hennessy
Sparta La Salle

Nelson has arrived from Milwaukee and looks to be in the pink of condition. He declares he will put Hennessy away before the final gong. Word to the same effect comes from Spike's training camp. This will be some fight.

AMERICAN ATHLETES IN AUSTRALASIA HANG UP NEW RECORDS; SURPRISE RIVALS

Ric Templeton.

A four-man team with four foreign records to its credit—that is the record to date of the All-American track and field quartet now touring in New Zealand.

One of the four is Ric Templeton of the Olympic club, San Francisco. He vaulted 11 feet 2 inches, which is a new Australasian mark. He could not continue for a higher mark, owing to lack of bamboo poles to vault with.

APPROVES RIVER WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—In appealing today before the house rivers and harbors committee for further surveys on the Missouri river, Representative Boreland declared that the work already undertaken had resulted in opening up daily navigation to a seven boat fleet which will be increased this year to nine. He said the freight rate is two-thirds that of the railroads.

Not Paying For Holes.
"Yes, sir," said the druggist, "we have all sorts of porous plasters. What sort do you want?"

"Well—er—which kind has the fewest holes in it?" asked Stinjay. "I want to get my money's worth."

Excuses.
Before venturing to give an excuse consider whether you would take it.—Albany Journal.

JOHNNY COULON FIT

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 21.—Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion, arrived here today and pronounced himself fit for the bout tonight with "Young" Sinnott, Rock Island scrapper, that marks Coulon's re-entry into the ring. If Coulon shows his old form, he will accept terms for a twenty round battle on the coast with either Kid Williams or Eddie Campi.
